GENERAL KEIFER is an Ohio man. Ohio has not taken a back seat.

The "vigorous prosecution" of Star Route "thieves" does not proceed.

We pity the man who would turn the city schools into a political machine.

SENATOR DON CAHILL'S handwriting may be in General Keifer's nomination.

KENTUCKY will elect a United States Senator next Tuesday. Mr. Beck will be his own successor.

A large colony of French vine growers is to be established, either in Virginia or North Carolina.

Do not use the city school for the dispensation of pensions to personal, political or sectarian favorites. Don't do it.

The Pennsylvania Congressmen started the Keifer boom. They can claim a large share of the credit of his election.

Governor BLACKBURN has pardoned convicts out of the Kentucky penitentiary because there is no room for them in the penitentiary.

REV. J. HYATT SMITH, the Republican Greenbacker from Brooklyn, decided at the last moment to go into the Republican caucus.

DR. BLISS and the other physicians decline to take anything from Mrs. Griffith for their services in attending upon her husband, the late President.

The wife of Congressman Clarke has withdrawn her cross-bill filed in the divorce suit instituted by her husband, and will not resist the granting of a decree.

CONGRESSMAN JOHN D. WHITE, of Kentucky, was not in the Republican caucus yesterday. He is said to be in Frankfort lobbying for the completion of the Republican vote in the Kentucky legislature for United States Senator.

GEN. KEIFER, who was nominated for speaker of the House of Representatives yesterday evening by the Republican caucus, is serving his third term in Congress. He is a gentleman of high character and distinguished ability, and will make a dignified and efficient presiding officer. It was hardly possible to make a mistake in the selection of a speaker with the material before them, and none was made in the nomination of Gen. J. Warren Keifer.

The principle evidence in behalf of Guitau was introduced, and it does not appear yet that he is too crazy hang. One of his own witnesses, Hon. Emory A. Storrs, who has known him for several years, has seen nothing in him showing that he is unable to distinguish right from wrong. His statement seems to have created something of a sensation, and some of Guitau's friends eventually lost their temper. While no one supposes that the assassin was a fit man to be Minister to Austria or Consul at Paris, the general verdict is that he is a fit subject for the gallows. We see nothing upon which the prisoner ought to have even the benefit of a doubt, and we still believe that the end of a rope with nothing to stand on is his proper place. His friends cannot complain that he has not been given the fullest opportunity to make his defense complete if he had had a valid defense to make.

Bank Statement.
New York, December 3.—The weekly statement of the associated banks shows the following changes: Loans, increase, $562,900; specie, decrease, $1,703,500; legal tenders, increase, $263,100; deposits, increase, $128,900; circulation, increase, $138,000; reserve, decrease, $1,401,975. The banks now hold $430,875 less than the legal requirements.

Feeble Ladies.
Those languid, tremulous sensations, causing you to feel scarcely able to be on your feet, that constant drain that has taken from your system all its elasticity, driving the bloom from cheeks, that constant strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that marvelous remedy, Hop Bitters. Irrregularities and obstructions of your system are relieved at once, while the special cause of periodical pain is permanently removed. Will you lead this?—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

Punched Coin.
Merchants and dealers everywhere are refusing to take at face, silver coins with holes in them, but we hear of very poor people who do not feel willing to take a hole in their pocket, if they need anything of the kind for their children, at the regular price of 25c per bottle, and it is well worth the money.

GUITEAU.

A Rumor That President Arthur And Other Distinguished Men Would Testify,

Drew a Large Crowd to the Court House Yesterday.

Hon Emory A. Storrs Creates a Sensation.

By Expressing an Opinion as to Guitau's Insanity.

Which Was Not Well Received by Guitau's Friends.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—There was no apparent diminution of the crowd that pressed for admission to the court room this morning notwithstanding the general impression that Guitau having left the stand the proceedings for a day or two would be of an uninteresting character. The number of applicants for tickets was fully as great as upon any other day. It was soon apparent about the court room that the defense had subpoenaed President Arthur, Vice President David Davis, Speaker Randall and Senator Bayard to appear in court this morning, and interest in to-day's proceedings was immensely increased.

Court was opened at 10:50, and So. ville began at once by calling Col. J. O. P. Borside, Disbursing officer of the post office department. Witness formerly lived in Freeport, Ill., and knew the prisoner's family. Mrs. Guitau was an invalid and he seldom saw her.

Thomas G. Allen, of Missouri, lived in Freeport in 1839-40, and knew the Guitau family. Mrs. Guitau was in feeble health and before the birth of the prisoner was for some time confined to her bed.

Emory A. Storrs, of Chicago, knew Guitau in that city, by sight, as a young lawyer. Met him on Broadway, New York, five or six years ago. Prisoner overtook witness and handed him his business card. Did not speak with him above three minutes. Witness saw Guitau perhaps a dozen times at the National Republican committee rooms, during the late Presidential canvass. The prisoner came up to him gleefully and putting him on the shoulder or said, "You are on the right track."

The witness never saw Guitau doing anything at the committee rooms other than reading papers. He seemed to have no special employment. He thought Guitau had an "illy balanced mind," but never discovered anything to indicate he could not distinguish right from wrong.

The evidence created quite a stir in the court room, and seemed to stagger those on the defense. The sister of the prisoner was particularly excited, and in tones distinctly caught by the reporters said: "He has perjured himself, that is all there is about it."

Senator David Davis was called, but knew nothing about the prisoner. Two or three other witnesses were examined and the court adjourned till Monday.

Railroad News.
GALVESTON.—A special to the News from Fort Worth says: "In the work of connecting the Texas Pacific track with that of the Southern Pacific at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, two of the last spikes were driven by M. S. Wm. Stall and Mrs. R. E. Montgomery, the latter a daughter of Gen. Dodge. The last two spikes were driven by H. M. Hoxie and D. W. Washburne by the light of a bonfire. The first engine passed over from the Texas Pacific to the Southern Pacific track, and after the placing of a gold and a silver coin on the track, the party broke up."

A Desperate Encounter.
GALVESTON, Tex., December 3.—A special to the News from Navasota says: A desperate encounter took place last Monday evening at Graball, Washington county, between Wm. Bass and Pink Keeg on one side and Wm. Ross and a young barber on the other side. Ross was wounded by Keeg and died on Wednesday. The barber was also shot through the shoulder and lung by Bass, and is lying in a dangerous condition.

Prisoner Stabbed.
SELMA, Ala., December 3.—On Tuesday night a difficulty occurred at R. Hobbs, Ala., between Capt. Dan Jones, a prominent merchant of Mobile, and M. and Morris Michaels, during which Jones was fatally stabbed. He died last night. The trouble was about a business settlement.

NEW ORLEANS, December 3.—Jas. S. Hesba was convicted yesterday of the murder of Simon Kelly, a huckster, on Lake Shell road, on the 4th of July last. Corporal Thos. Griffin had already been convicted and sentenced to five years at hard labor for participating in the same crime.

NEW JERSEY.

NEWARK, N. J., December 3.—Chancellor Rumson has refused to grant a writ of error in the case of Kenkowski, the Hudson county murderer.

The counsel for the directors of the Mechanics Bank announces that the directors yesterday agreed upon a scheme for the re-establishment of the bank and to raise funds with a view to an honorable adjustment of the claims of stockholders, depositors and other creditors. The particulars will shortly be made known. The receiver of the bank says that if the arrangements would go into effect it would cost the directors more than one million dollars, and would result in reviving the bank. From several sources it is learned that the stockholders will probably lose the value of the stock, and that the depositors will lose a small per centage, except those to whom amounts under $200 are due.

Condition of Cotton Crop.
The New Orleans Democrat publishes a special from all portions of the Cotton country, giving the latest news of the condition of crop. Reports from Alabama show a decrease in the crop of 20 per cent as compared with that of last year. In Arkansas the crop is gathered, and will range from 40 to 50 per cent below that of last year.

In Georgia the crop will be generally one-third short, except around Columbus, where the yield is better than last season. Parishes in Louisiana show a great deficiency in the yield, Morehouse not raising one-third of a crop, while St. Landry has nearly an average yield. The yield for Mississippi is about 69 per cent, somewhat less than was anticipated. In Tennessee the crop will be about 40 per cent of that of last year. The Texas crop will be half an average one.

ATLANTA.
ATLANTA, December 3.—A public reception was given by the exposition managers in the judges' hall yesterday. Addresses of welcome were made by Director General Kimball and Governor Colquett, and response by Governor Blackham and Hon. E. K. Foster, on behalf of Florida, and by Chas. R. Jones, editor of the Charlotte Observer, on behalf of the North Carolina press. There is a daily increase in the number of incoming visitors, the trains being loaded from all directions.

WASHINGTON.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 2.—The annual report of the Secretary of War was made public to-day. It is chiefly devoted to the consideration of the important recommendation contained in the annual report of his subordinates. Gen. Sherman's recommendation, that the Army be increased to 300,000 men, receives Secretary Lincoln's earnest endorsement.

MEXICO.
MEXICO, Nov. 30.—An attempt was made on Saturday to murder Governor Manuel Lledo, of Guanajuato, by two men who had been instigated by political enemies. Much party feeling has existed in Guanajuato. General Ord has gone to Oaxaca as the representative of the Mexican Southern Railway to be present at the inauguration of General Diaz as governor of the State, and was specially sent by General Grant.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The steamer Helvatis, from New York for Liverpool, which arrived at Queenstown yesterday, reports that she passed the steamer Erin, from Liverpool for New York, bearing up in and tow of the British steamer Palestine from Boston for Liverpool. The Erin had her propeller and funnel, and had her deck swept.

LONDON, December 3.—The Times, in an editorial article discussing the system of allowing prisoners to give evidence, says: "The incidents of Guitau's trial ought not to prejudice our opinion in regard to this important question. His boisterous sanity would have resumed the scenes at his trial under any system."

The statement of the Imperial Bank of Germany shows an increase of specie since last its last report of 4,620,000 marks.

The spinning mills of Black & Wingate, at Glasgow, are burned. The damage is 250,000. A thousand persons are out of employment by the disaster.

MINOR DISPATCHES.
NEW ORLEANS, December 3.—On December 1st the citizens of New Orleans will give a grand ball and reception at the French opera-house in honor of the distinguished visitors, who were recently the guests of the nation at the Yorktown Centennial.

CHARLESTON, S. C., December 3.—Arnold Vanderheer, a prominent citizen of Charleston and owner of extensive plantations on the coast, was killed Thursday on Kiawah Island by an accidental discharge of his gun while deer hunting. He was the member of the Society of Cincinnati.

Files and Mosquitoes.
A 15 cents box of "Rough on Rats" will keep a house free from Files, Mosquitoes, Rats and Mice the entire season. Duggists.

Saw Logs Wanted.
Walnut, ash, sweetgum, poplar, pine, oak and cherry saw logs for which the highest market price will be paid in cash. S. T. ATKIN.

THE REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

Gen. Keifer Nominated For Speaker of the House.

Receiving Nearly a Two-Thirds Vote on the Sixth Ballot.

Hon. Edward McPherson Nominated for Clerk.

WASHINGTON, December 3.—The Republican members elect assembled at noon to-day, in the hall of the House of Representatives, for the purpose of nominating candidates to fill the various elective offices. Jay A. Hubbel, of Michigan, called the caucus to order shortly after 12 o'clock. Mr. Robeson, of New Jersey, was then selected as chairman of the caucus. Mr. Miller, of Pennsylvania, as secretary, and Mr. McCormick, of New York, Mr. Updegraff, of Iowa, and Mr. McClure, of Ohio, as assistant secretaries and tellers.

A roll call was responded to by 146 representatives elect, including J. Hyatt Smith of N. Y. J. D. White of Ky., the 146th regular Republican, being absent.

Nominations for the Speakership were then declared to be in order, and candidates were placed in nomination as follows: Frank Hiscock, New York, by Representative Camp of New York; Jas. W. Keifer, Ohio, by Representative Hazleton of Wisconsin; John A. Kasson, Iowa, by Representative Cameron of Illinois; Mark H. Dunnell, of Minnesota, by Strat. of Minn.; Godlove S. Orth, Ind., by Rep. Calkins; J. C. Burrows, of Michigan, by Horr, of Michigan, and Thos. B. Reed, of Maine, by Lindsey, of Maine.

A motion was made and advocated briefly by Bayne, of Pennsylvania, that the voting be viva voce, but this was voted down, and the balloting was then proceeded with. The results are as follows: Keifer 52, Hiscock 44, Kasson 15, Reid 13, Burrows 10, Orth 8, Dunnell 4, total, 145.

Second ballot.—Keifer 55, Hiscock 41, Kasson 16, Reid 12, Burrows 15, Orth 8, Dunnell 3, total, 145.

Third ballot.—Keifer 55, Hiscock 38, Kasson 19, Reid 12, Burrows 10, Orth 8, Dunnell 3, total, 145.

McPherson was nominated for clerk on first ballot by a vote of 92 against 44 for Rainey, and the rest scattering.

Balloting continued without a result until the sixteenth ballot, when Keifer received 93 votes and the caucus nomination. He gained sixteen from Hiscock, ten from Burrows and six from Kasson and Dunnell.

Seventeen out of the eighteen members of the Pennsylvania delegation held a conference this morning, at which, after some discussion, all members present agreed to vote for General Keifer as Speaker.

The absentees were Mr. Bayne, who sent word that he would vote for Mr. Hiscock. It was also determined by the seventeen members to support Mr. Bunn, E-Register of Wills, of Philadelphia, for election as Sergeant-at-Arms.

Five of the members announced themselves for the position of Clerk of the House, but it was formally decided that the delegation should not make any effort to elect any Pennsylvania man to that office, but favor its being given to some New Yorker, probably Wm. Johnson. The result of the Pennsylvania conference is generally regarded as highly favorable to the prospects of Keifer's success. But other prominent candidates still profess undiminished confidence.

It was announced that Mr. Keifer's name had been withdrawn from the list of candidates for the office of Clerk.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Upton has tendered his resignation. The grand jury found six indictments in Star Route cases, four against Frederick B. Lilley and two against George B. Brott. Bench warrants were issued for the arrest of the parties.

IN THE CAT MARKET.

A number of Maltese cats and kittens occupy cages at the entrance to a curio-basement in Liberty street. When they are not asleep, they mew dismally and plainly long for the liberty of a house or a back fence.

"Can it be possible that any part of this community buys cats?" the keeper of the basement was asked. He was unable to answer at once, for a man brought in just then a barrel full of stale bread. The dogs of all varieties in the basement clanked their chains and yowled, the poultry crowed and cackled, and the cats, too, mewed and looked anxious.

"Do people ever buy cats?" the dealer was asked again.

"Well, somewhat," he said. "I've sold 40 Maltese kittens in the last three months."

"What are the ruling rates for cats now?"

"Maltese kittens bring from $3 to $5. The old cats don't sell so well, because they are not so likely to stay at home and keep early hours, and the respectable habits of the Toms hurt their sale a good deal. The kittens, though, are in demand."

"Where do they come from?"

"These are Ohio cats. They come in crates from Alliance."

"Are they bred there?"

"They run wild as common cats do here, and are caught for nothing. They cost us here about $1 or $1.50."

"Who buy them?"

"People passing here on their way to the ferry often stop in and get a cat, or something. No, I never had an old maid here, or even a lady of any age except once. Some of our best customers are in Virginia. We have orders for fine cats at from $8 to $10 from Richmond, and for dogs, too. The Maltese are plenty, and the demand is good; but if we could only get a few Angora cats, we could net them with a rush at about $40 apiece. There are few of them in the city."

"Is there any sale for what are called 'common cats' by some people, and 'harrier names' still by others?"

"Not to speak of. People would be glad to get rid of them. But they are just as good mousers as well-bred Maltese kittens."—New York Sun.

Jesus rushed into the office of the Weekly Spectator. There was a wild look in his eye and a copy of the Spectator in his hand. "Did you put that piece in here?" he demanded of the editor, pointing with trembling finger to a paragraph stating that salt scattered about the yard would kill fowl. "That?" said the editor, inquiringly, stopping in the midst of his editorial and laying down his paste brush; "yes, that's mine—what of it? true, isn't it?" "Yes, and that's just what's the matter," said Jones, "and you may stop my paper right off—do you hear?" "Oh, yes, certainly," said the editor, "John!" he called out, "stop Jones' paper. Anything else, Mr. Jones?" "Yes, there's something else," shrieked Jones, madly, by the editor's coolness. "I'd like to know what you put such things in your paper for. There's Smith, who lives next to me, got his rascally sheet Saturday night, and Monday morning his yard was full of dead hens—my hens, sir! He'd salted his vegetable garden, the villain—and all along of that confounded piece of yarn."

The editor delegated the big pressman to show Jones out, remarking that he was glad to have such unprejudiced corroborations of the truth of his last week's statements.—Boston Transcript.

TREE CULTURE IN CALIFORNIA.

Nine years ago an emigrant from an Eastern State arrived in one of the bay counties with his family and a capital of $75. He had some knowledge of horticulture, and was a good practical gardener. A capitalist, who was the owner of some comparatively useless land, contracted with this emigrant for planting and tending forty acres of this land in Australian gums or eucalyptus.

The breaking, fencing, planting and labor on the land cost the owner $3,000. At the end of the first year he had 32,000 thirty trees, and the second year he set out the shaded ground in pasture, which retained its verdure nearly throughout the entire twelve months, showing a denser growth from year to year. At the beginning of the third year he utilized this pasture for dairy cows, and found it strong enough to support two cows to the acre. He estimated its value for this use at $4 per month per acre for eight months out of twelve, or $32 per year per acre. The total yearly profit from this source was $1,280.

At the end of the eighth year he was offered in cash by the keepers of a wood-yard 30 cents each for his trees, or $960 per acre, the purchasers to pay all the cost of cutting and removing the timber.

The total value was $9,600, but in the meantime the owner of the land had had five years' use of the pasture, which, by his own close estimate, was worth to him $6,000. This makes the grand total of gross earnings in eight years $15,600. From this must be deducted $3,600 paid out for the nursery plants, fencing and labor, and an expense of $500 for water for irrigation during the first two years, leaving a net income of $11,500, or $287.50 per acre for the eight years, or $36 per acre for one year.—San Francisco Chronicle.

"My Back Aches so, and I feel miserable" said a hard working man. The doctor questioned him and found that he had been habitually constipated for years; that now his kidneys were disordered and his whole system deranged. Kidney-Wort was recommended and faithfully taken and in a short time every trouble was removed. The cleansing and tonic power of this medicine on the bowels and kidneys is wonderful.—Congregationalist.

Obituary.

Athens Post.

James Lindsay Matthews, son of E. H. and E. A. Matthews, died at Athens, Tennessee, on Wednesday night, November 23d, 1881, after an illness of thirty-one days, of typhoid fever, aged 19 years and four months.

And as the flowers are out down, wither and pass away. The subject of this notice was born at Ten Mile Stand, Meigs County, Tennessee, July 20th, 1862, and moved with his father's family to Athens on the 6th of October, 1877. He was indeed an exemplary character—upright and most promising. He has not yet passed the years of youth, but in moral thought and bearing he was none the less a well-developed man. Scrupulously correct in habit, kind and civil in disposition, his deportment toward others was rich and exalted type which commands the respect and esteem of acquaintances and wins the affections of classmates and associates. He was not identified by membership with any church organization, but his constant attention to devotional works and his daily walk gave ample evidence of Christianity in his heart, the most cheering testimony to which was his high sense of honor and his love of the good and noble in life—forcibly emphasized by thought and deed. His precept was above and beyond the reach of criticism, and the beautiful young manhood which he at all times exemplified in a priceless legacy left those who knew, loved and must follow him. It is always and when the season of death comes round, but how peculiarly touching the hour when the vigor of youth which is so bright and full of promise for future usefulness and good is forever laid to rest. His passing was an undimmed of all that is worthy in life, and the distinguishing traits of his character were such as to render his memory doubly sweet to his mourning friends and kindred. As his precious life ended peacefully away the acclaim was heeded that though garnered in early years the world was better for his having lived in it. His position as a student of unusual strength and which poised itself above the unworthy things of earth and laid hold upon and grasped with quickening warmth the useful and elevating lessons of purity and truth. The very appearance of him he avoided, and if he ever thought or uttered anything reprehensible in the sight of Heaven it is not known among men to mar the harmony of our pleasure in recollection of his being here. The sketch of his life cannot be properly written by an imperfect pen, but the following sketch of his nature will be as fully cherished by those who mourn him most and as perpetually remembered, admired and revered as if chiseled in imperishable stone. The light of his life was a bright and pure one, and his death was a triumph over his body, but the grave holds not his spotless soul. Too good and pure, too true and upright, too earnest and modest to longer mingle with the rougher elements of earth. God called him to a peaceful place above. The stricken family may all be comforted with the assurance that his departure hence was a happy transition from gloom and darkness to the ineffable light and glory of God's own presence compared with which all on earth is as gloom and night is here cutting.

"Do you have any fast horses in Germany?" asked Gus De Smith of old Ad. to German who is known as "Trash Fritz" on account of his sincerity and hatred of everything sensational. He does have fast horses in Germany, but he goes so fast he makes it look like he is in a hurry to ride about an hour, I say: "What for you drive so much in dis cemetry?" He says: "Derick Smith, but he goes so fast he makes it look like he is in a hurry to ride about an hour, I say: "What for you drive so much in dis cemetry?"
